

Domain Name Thought Experiment (Dream URL)

If you could have any domain name, what would it be? Would it be your name or the name of a cause or concept dear to your heart? Would it be a .com, .org, or .net? Would it be something easy not to misspell and different enough from similar offerings? What would your future employer or grad school think of the name? Check to see what's available before you turn in this assignment. And check Google to see what might be associated with those keywords.

Write a 100-200 word paragraph explaining your choice and the reasoning behind it.
